

Contents

Preface	vii
Acknowledgments	ix
1 What's in Your Mind? Zenon W. Pylyshyn	1
2 Explaining the Infant's Object Concept: Beyond the Perception/Cognition Dichotomy Brian J. Scholl and Alan M. Leslie	26
3 Rethinking Rationality: From Bleak Implications to Darwinian Modules Richard Samuels, Stephen Stich, and Patrice D. Tremoulet	74
4 New Foundations for Perception Michael Leyton	121
5 Object Representation and Recognition Sven J. Dickinson	172
6 Does Vision Work? Towards a Semantics of Perception Jacob Feldman	208
7 The Brain as a Hypothesis-constructing-and-testing Agent Thomas V. Papathomas	230
8 What Movements of the Eye Tell us about the Mind Eileen Kowler	248

9	Visual Dilemmas: Competition between Eyes and between Percepts in Binocular Rivalry	263
	Thomas V. Papathomas, Ilona Kovács, Akos Fehér, and Bela Julesz
10	Linguistic and Cognitive Explanation in Optimality Theory	295
	Bruce Tesar, Jane Grimshaw, and Alan Prince
11	Impossible Words?	327
	Jerry Fodor and Ernest Lepore
12	Bridging the Symbolic–Connectionist Gap in Language Comprehension	336
	Suzanne Stevenson
13	Cognitive and Neural Aspects of Language Acquisition	356
	Karin Stromswold
14	Connectionist Neuroscience: Representational and Learning Issues for Neuroscience	401
	Stephen José Hanson
	Index	429